

Coal Negotiators Consider New Welfare Demand Of Lewis

Election Day In One Week

Pre-Primary Campaign Has Been Quiet—Fear Light Vote

Coasting into the last week of the primary election campaign, Lawrence county will probably poll a light vote unless something happens between now and May 21 to engender some interest in the candidates.

Aside from a few group meetings, and appearances of the candidates for governor, there hasn't been much in the way of ballhy, or vote hunting propaganda.

Important Offices
The offices for which nominations will be made by both parties are important. A United States senator, a governor, a congressman, a lieutenant-governor, secretary of internal affairs, general assemblymen, all of them important and all of them to be nominated next Tuesday.

While the Republicans have been quiet the Democrats have been even quieter. There is slight opposition on the Democrat ticket, except for state committeeman from Lawrence county.

The election will be held on Easter Sunday, which means the polls will not open until eight o'clock Daylight Savings Time and close at nine o'clock Daylight Savings Time. But in case you happen to be asked about the primary election, it's Tuesday, May 21.

Lift Embargo At Railway Express

W. H. Leber, agent for the Railway Express office of the city, announced today that the freight embargo, extended to include his office, has been officially lifted.

Mr. Leber added, however, that due to the unsettled conditions of the railroads at the present time, the express office is behind schedule in shipments, but is gradually getting back to normal. All items are again being accepted.

Temporary lay-offs to drivers have been cancelled, and by today most of the truck men have been taken back to their jobs, the agent announced.

LEWIS' DEMAND FOR WELFARE FUND IS BEING DEBATED

detailed outline of any of the miners' contract demands. Federal mediators hoped that it would afford a springboard for intensive collective bargaining on a new contract.

Negotiations were to be resumed today but there was no immediate indication as to whether the union representatives also were ready to spell out other demands and lay the wage-hour issue on the conference table.

Payroll Levy Proposal
The UMW's proposal of a payroll levy, supplanting last year's demand for a 10 cents a ton "royalty" on all coal mined, was in line with some of the operators' privately-expressed ideas on how the fund should be raised.

A spokesman for the operators termed the size of Lewis' demand "completely ridiculous." However, informal discussions, the industry has talked of contributing three to five million dollars annually to a welfare fund.

Senate proponents of tighter labor legislation to prevent strikes from upsetting the national economy found Lewis' demand for a payroll levy "no more acceptable" than this previous plan for a tonnage "royalty."

Presses For Action
Sen. Byrd (D) Va., continued to press for enactment of his bill outlawing payment of funds by an employer directly to a labor union. Byrd said the legislation would ban Lewis' payroll levy if the funds were union-controlled.

Lewis outlined his welfare demand after the mine operators agreed to pay three million dollars in back overtime holiday pay, an issue which had stalled the government-directed negotiations for two weeks.

The union chief estimated that the holiday pay means an average of $4 to $16 for each of his 400,000 soft coal miners, 60 percent of whom were back in the pits Monday. A further return-to-work movement was anticipated today.

Negotiations on the welfare fund are expected to center on its administration and the amount. Special Mediator Paul W. Fuller disclosed that Lewis still is determined on complete union control of the fund.

"When the boys see conditions, they wonder what they were fighting for. Well, most of them fought because their draft board gave them no choice."

bonds. He stressed the fact that Mr. Taylor, the state chairman, who is in the bonding business in Harrisburg had every department bonded, many of them that handle little money. He then mentioned bond totals of employees of a number of departments. The premiums on the bonds net Mr. Taylor six figures sums each year, Mr. Shroyer charged.

Mason Owlett was described as "the most efficient and pernicious lobbyist in Harrisburg," and lumped Grundy, Owlett and Taylor together as the "GOT" boys.

Mr. Shroyer said he and his colleagues, J. Calvin Frank, candidate for the Republican nomination for Secretary of Internal Affairs stood for enlightened welfare legislation, increased pay for teachers, a square deal for veterans and better labor legislation.

J. Calvin Frank
J. Calvin Frank, presently a county commissioner in Dauphin county, preceded Mr. Shroyer. He spoke some what along the lines of Mr. Shroyer but stressed benefits for veterans and a cleaning out of the Grundy-Owlett-Taylor combination.

The rally took place in the ballroom of The Castleton hotel, Joseph B. Leyde, chairman of the Shroyer campaign, in Lawrence county introduced Mr. Frank. Shortly after Mr. Leyde was called out of the meeting and his place as chairman was taken by County Commissioner Earl R. Wimer, who introduced Mr. Shroyer.

A number of local veterans of the Spanish-American war and the Philippine campaign met with the candidate and reminisced over their war time experiences. Following the rally a reception was held in the lobby of the hotel.

FEAR FOOD RATIONING TALK MAY RESULT IN MORE HOARDING

later in the week. He talked with Mr. Truman for 40 minutes yesterday.

The famine Emergency Committee was called into session today to hear reports on its food conservation program, but officials emphasized that only meager information on the success of the program is yet available.

Some Dissatisfaction
Officials of the committee expressed dissatisfaction with the progress of the conservation program in public eating places such as hotels and restaurants, although Hoover told newsmen that the American people have done a "splendid job" in voluntary conservation.

The committee officials said that reports indicate a larger number of families are joining in the program; to save food in homes, but they disapproved of the slow progress being made in conserving food in restaurants and hotels.

One report received by the committee from the American Hotel Association revealed that the nation's hotels have succeeded in saving only 25 per cent on consumption of flour although the committee recommended a saving of 40 per cent.

The famine official's disapproval of rationing "talk" came in the wake of statements by Hoover making it clear that the former president does not believe that a return to rationing is necessary.

SPEEDY ACTION NEEDED TODAY ON DRAFT LAW

measure to a conference between the two houses. Even if the latter course is chosen, the house must act on any conference agreement first, thus leaving the fate of the wartime conscription measure finally up to the senate.

Administration leaders were openly fearful that the senate may be blocked from taking either course, in which event the law will automatically go off the statute books a minute after midnight.

Under senate rules, any one member can block consideration of the legislation today by objecting to its being called up in place of the case anti-strike bill, now being considered by that body.

The action of the house eliminated a session of recriminations against the senate for its "parliamentary maneuvering" and "dilatory tactics" which have delayed upper chamber consideration of a regular extension bill.

Must Get Speedy Action
Because of "lengthy" debate accorded the British loan, the senate last week voted a resolution temporarily extending the expiring draft law until July 1 to give that body time to consider the over-all legislation. The resolution, in its final form, must be approved by both houses, and signed by the president, if it is not to go out of existence.

There were reports that president was preparing an executive order keeping the draft machinery alive should the senate fail to act during the day. Such an order would be temporary at best, some quarters said the legality of any persons drafted during its operation would be clouded.

Before finally voting on the two amendments which forced the resolution back to the senate, the house heard bitter debate as the pros and cons of the issue were heatedly discussed.

At stake was the future of some 60,000 teen-age youths who have been deferred from induction pending the completion of the high school and college terms, as well as the estimated 615,000 youths who will turn eighteen during the next six weeks.

stumps on which birds were perched. Mrs. D. B. Forster, director of scout activities in Beaver county, gave a forceful talk on camp life as part of the Girl Scout program.

With the cooperation of Miss Betty Robinson, Mrs. Forster also taught the girls several new camp songs.

Two other visitors from the Beaver county council were also introduced—Mrs. Howard Shanks, the commissioner of the Beaver Girl Scouts, and Mrs. William J. Miller, finance chairman.

Senior troop 27 had charge of the flag ceremony which opened the evening, with Patsy Stitzinger, Joan Reed, Midge Saunders and Janet Everett as the color guard.

Mar. Paul Forney, Lawrence county commissioner, extended greetings to the group and introduced the visitors during the evening.

Magic Show
Following the speakers, Ned Vidal, local school boy whose hobby is performing magic tricks, gave an exhibition which delighted the crowd. He was assisted by Carl Thayer and interrupted by Jack Triplett, this heckler of the evening.

Concluding the program, Mrs. Morris Davis presided at the collection of the money for the Juliette Low fund which the individual troops have been saving for some time. The money will be used for relief work.

Those in charge of the dinner served were Mrs. Harry Wetten, general chairman, and Mrs. George Lewis, co-chairman; Mrs. H. C. Boalick was in charge of the projects; Mrs. Plummer D. Gibson in charge of entertainment; Mrs. W. E. Hughes program; Mrs. Charles Wadsworth, group singing; Mrs. Lloyd McCormick, distribution of campfires; and Mrs. John Bender assisting Mrs. Lewis.

Ex-Soldier Held For Investigation

Highway Police Find Ex-Soldier Driving Car Belonging To Missing Man

NASHVILLE, Tenn., May 14.—(INS)—State highway patrolmen intensified their search today for the body of A. W. Hollstein, a Baltimore, Md. shoe salesman, believed to have been slain somewhere between Nashville and Knoxville.

A discharged soldier, was held at Knoxville pending completion of the investigation.

Taylor was arrested while driving Hollstein's blood-stained automobile. He told authorities that he remembered leaving Hollstein at Ripley, but remembered nothing after that.

The ex-soldier was taken into custody after being stopped by highway patrolmen in a routine check of drivers. Papers in the car showed the vehicle belonged to the Baltimore man, and it was then that officers found one side of the car caked with blood and matted hair.

Police said Hollstein's sister, Mrs. R. W. Hale, told them by telephone from Baltimore that her brother had been "in the habit of picking up hitchhikers."

FAITH
FIFTY YEARS

Fifty years ago today, the writer received his diploma from the Renouard Training School of Embalming. It may be a long time, but when it has passed, it doesn't seem that way.

We have learned a lot, rubbing elbows with other people. It is the contact with good people, that helps to make one better. We have a lot to be thankful for, that we have been spared these many years, and hope that those born today, will grow up to see a different country than we now live in.

Thanks to my friends, and forgiveness to my enemies.

One of my opponents remains silent. Neither accepts my implied challenge to state his position for the future.

The present Assemblyman points with pride to past accomplishments, which, according to the RECORD do not overshadow the lost opportunities to take constructive action in matters of importance to the people of our city and our state.

One would be led to believe that it is necessary to connive or scheme to secure our proper return of taxes to support our hospitals, schools and highways. If the law is not clearly defined along these lines, it should be and will be, if in my power to act in these matters.

Surely we do not want more than our share at the expense of other localities in our state, and we shall insist that we receive our proportionate return of such taxes.

Set For Tragedy

March fire losses for the nation totaled more than $53,000,000, an increase of 30 per cent over the same month of 1945. For the fourth consecutive month fire losses have soared to new high records compared to last year. Part of this increase is inevitable, as a result of rising property values. In fact it would have been much more had not organized fire prevention efforts helped to hold down fire destruction. However, the problem of fire is critical. The stage is set for the most ghastly fire waste of life and property this country has ever seen. Over-age buildings, crowding, and makeshift renovating can lead to a national tragedy. The only effective way to prevent it is by developing individual consciousness of the danger. If the fire prevention authorities can impress upon each and every one of us the necessity of observing caution where the possibility of fire is concerned, the battle is half won.

Now, in the spring, is a good time to apply this individual caution. Clean up your premises. Attic, closet, basement, heating system—all should be given the closest attention. It is a good thing to remember that many older buildings develop fire hazards. Cracked or burnt out flues and obsolete wiring are menaces to watch.

Another thing that cannot be emphasized too much in these days of inflation is the danger of underinsurance. Rising values have outstripped the insurance policy of a few years ago. Property owners should appraise their protection in light of today's values.

During this year the indication is that nearly half a billion dollars of property will be destroyed by fire. Will yours be on the bonfire, and underinsured?

Do We Really Care?

Seattle, Wash., has just had an experiment with democracy at the grass roots. It planned meticulously for a local election. It was to be a truly significant election, with a mayor and councilmen chosen for the reconversion period of a great city and millions of dollars to be approved for future development.

Speakers called the election the "American way of rule." Here was projected man's most precious privilege: To choose his own rulers, to have his own say for the locale in which he intended to live the rest of his life. What happened?

Only 15 out of 100 qualified voters went to the polls. A great many, according to Seattle Municipal News, were too busy (though they could not explain what was more important than voting). A few were sick. A substantial number simply forgot. And to cap the climax of all excuses, typhons went on sale that day at a downtown store.

Here at Dallas, Texas, we cannot laugh at Seattle, Wash. We had a school election Tuesday. Seattle did get 15 per cent out to vote; we got 4 per cent, although a system handling 50,000 children and spending $15,000,000 annually was involved. Highland Park, usually prouder of its participation in civic affairs, polled just 5 per cent of its strength in selecting a new administration. Dallas early in December balloted on the most important program in its century of history and polled just 8 per cent of its strength.

Democracy in action begins at the bottom. Are the democracies really trying to make democracy work?—Dallas News.

Withdrawal From Egypt

British armed occupation of Egypt stems from the empire diplomacy of Benjamin Disraeli and the eastward march to India. Intervenor in this skein are such names as Khartoum, Gordon and Kitchener. Announcement by a Laborite prime minister that his government now proposes to withdraw all forces from the land of the Nile strikes at a historic policy and it shakes to the rafters the halls of the Conservatives. It is the first big split in foreign policy between the dominant Laborites and the Conservative opposition since the election last July.

Two factors temper the announcement, says a London dispatch to the Chicago Tribune. "One is that there will be a considerable delay, perhaps years, before evacuation is carried out. The second is that the British are planning a new regrouping of their forces to police their imperial possessions in the Middle East."

What prompts the projected withdrawal? Is it the new parliament's sympathy for the Egyptian Nationalists in their clamor to rid their country of the "British yoke"? Or is it another move in the game to outbid Russia in favors for the Moslems east of Suez?

Despite the fulminations of Winston Churchill, the alarm of Anthony Eden and the expressed view of Conservative Ira Fraser that the government is beginning to "unbottom the British empire," the scions of Gladstone and Victorian days were soundly beaten on the issue. Attention turns again to Cairo, where it remains to be seen what strings are attached to the proposal and how suspiciously the Egyptians will view an offer which might only lead them to another hard bargain.

MacArthur Rules Japan

In Japan the victory was unqualifiedly American. That victory left in charge of the situation men who were prepared by experience and intelligence to do the best thing in very troubled conditions.

General MacArthur by recognizing that there was a Japanese government, which government had offered the surrender, was able to make his plans work step by step without brutality and with common sense. His reputation for success in arms and in peace is such that his own government in Washington does not attempt, even if it should desire, to interfere with what he does.

A less determined man than MacArthur might be driven from his position by men who want to obstruct what he is doing and make as bad a mess of Japan as has been made of Germany. The objective of Russia plainly is to make a communist state of Japan, if it is possible. It is the oriental habits of the Japanese are different from our own but the people are not unwise or insistent. They've been in the modern world only a few score of years, during which they adopted occidental methods which they thought were profitable for great powers. They may just as easily adopt policies which will make them as reasonable as the people of any other nation which does not depend upon war for the entertainment of its generals, the profits of its capitalists, or the vainglory of its citizens.—Chicago Tribune.

An old widower out our way has a new wife and a new set of teeth. Needless to say, he is having trouble with both.

Those who advocate a daily shave and a weekly haircut for the average male say that it pays to look well. It certainly does, and with price schedules as they are, it pays the barber best.

WASHINGTON CALLING

by MARQUIS CHILDS

Collective Bargaining System Is Failure

WASHINGTON, May 14.—As the gears of industry grind to stop, emotion—fear, anger, hatred—reach the boiling point. It is an atmosphere in which rash and hasty action may produce consequences even more threatening than those confronting us today.

So much heat has been generated by the industrial warfare of the past six months and so little light in the speech before the United States Chamber of Commerce and in the article in the current Atlantic Monthly, Harvard Professor Sumner H. Slichter makes more sense than anyone else on the issue of unions, collective bargaining and wages.

First, Professor Slichter tries to answer the question whether the strikes were worthwhile from the union standpoint. Certainly, he concludes, they were not worthwhile on the basis of the wage increases that were won.

Not until early in 1943 will the workers in General Motors be as well off as they would have been had they not struck and had they worked steadily without any wage increase whatsoever. Not until 1943 will they be as well off as they would have been had they accepted the company's compromise offer of 13½ cents an hour increase. Two and a half years will be required before the employees of General Electric are as well off as they would have been had they accepted the company's compromise offer of 13½ cents.

Higher Pay in Cut Down Overtime. According to Professor Slichter's calculations, it will be more than two years before the employees of the U. S. Steel corporation will have made up for their refusal of the company's compromise offer of 15 cents an hour increase. Two and a half years will be required before the employees of General Electric are as well off as they would have been had they accepted the company's compromise offer of 13½ cents.

"Some people argue," says Professor Slichter, "that the time needed for wage increases to compensate for time lost will be diminished by overtime work which will be caused by the strikes. On balance, however, the higher wages forced by strikes will diminish the amount of overtime."

This last has been proved true in industry after industry. It is true, for example, in lumber and wood-working, where the curtailment of overtime has caused a reduction in the amount of lumber available for houses.

Company Losses Less Than Those of Workers. The companies also suffered losses from strikes. But their losses were relatively far less than those of the workers. In part this was because of the working of the income tax carry-back provision, which compensates corporations if their profits, under certain circumstances, fall below a level fixed in the law. Under the provision, General Motors got from the federal treasury $24,500,000.

But these economic losses to workers and to companies might be justified, says Professor Slichter, if it were two parties were learning to bargain together. That is, if they were learning to live together in comparative harmony under the American system of free enterprise.

Government intervention is a danger. If it is repeated in strike after strike through the fact-finding technique, or whatever technique, the danger is that the pattern will be set once for all. Wage-fixing by law will be the next step. The straitjacket of government will close around a large section of our economy.

The coal miners will have to work a long time to make up for their losses in the current strike, even though they get increases above those granted any other union. They have been out for 42 days.

"Deal" Not Collective Bargaining. Is it worthwhile? Ask the two parties learning to bargain? Not John L. Lewis, up until the so-called strike, declined to bargain in any real sense. He made demands and he refused to discuss those demands.

In any democratic meaning of the phrase, there has never been collective bargaining in the coal industry. In the past when wage negotiations have been held, Lewis has held up in a big suite in a luxurious hotel in New York. Finally he has made a deal with the boss of the operators.

Such a deal is not collective bargaining. It has no resemblance to give an take that occurs between two organizations when they really represent the segments of an industry. Through real bargaining comes mutual understanding. Understanding means improvement in profits and wages.

There has been talk of the "case for John L. Lewis." That is untrue. There is a case for the miners—an incontrovertible case on the score of safety, pensions and so on. But Lewis has not made that case. Lewis is a man of deals. And deals do not mean bargaining for the workers.

RESISTANCE LOW

"Resistance low!" the doctor said. As solemnly he shook his head. "Must rest a little longer now. And try to build it up, somehow!"

"Resistance low! No strength to fight. Bacteria and parasite. Resistance low! Beware of sneezes. You're subject now to all diseases."

"Resistance low!" as out I went. I wondered if the doctor meant—Like all the melodies he knew.

Temptations need resistance, too. Does character, like health, require that man shall not too quickly tire. Lest, stricken by some deadly foe, His friends shall say: "Resistance low!"

One Man's Opinion

(Distributed by International News Service)

Mr. Truman has been a doctor of laws since Saturday and hasn't treated a patient yet.

Congress has consistently refused to give him even a fact-finding stethoscope but members finally are breathing hard about John Lewis.

Not Sen. Pepper. He gives assurance that he will oppose "hasty" legislation resulting from the coal situation. After all Lewis has been calling these stoppages for only about 12 years and there's no need to rush.

Coal strikes used to be considered in the nature of a wart on the nation's countenance... fairly prominent but not particularly dangerous.

But there are some who feel that a major operation is now called for and if they get Lewis in the operating room, Petrillo can tell him how it feels.

The American Automobile Association promoting a campaign for safety on the highways with the slogan "Take it easy! Maybe it's not too late to recommend it for general use."

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

One of my readers complains that newspapers and magazines give so much praise and pay so much attention to the "big names" and completely neglect the "little people" who do things that, in the judgment of the world, man be very unimportant but that to them and to their neighbors and to other "little people" are so important and interesting.

For instance, this particular reader, whose husband makes hardly enough money to make ends meet, washes curtains for her neighbors "in her candlelight hours" to bring in some extra money for the education of her nine-year-old boy.

"Hidden treasures," she calls those people—and there are many hidden treasures in the lives of millions whose names you never see in the newspapers and whose deeds are inscribed only in the hearts of their families and friends.

If I were in my reader's shoes, I wouldn't worry too much about public acclaim or that ephemeral thing called publicity.

Publicity has never yet brought love or affection. Stand on your head in the middle of your Main street, wiggle your toes and get yourself arrested and your picture will be on the front page of your newspaper the next day.

Publicity is based on novelty and the unusual. "Doing good deeds" in the candlelight hours" is neither novel nor unusual.

A murderer or a holdup man gets plenty of publicity, while thousands of mothers and fathers and thousands of nurses and thousands of doctors and social workers and preachers work unheralded and unsung in their candlelight hours.

The world has not become great by the antics of publicity seekers or lightning hunters.

Jesus was not advertised on billboards but worked quietly modestly and efficiently.

His earthly reward was the cross—but after the cross came Easter and the resurrection.

To those of you who labor in silence and in the shadows, but who labor for the good of your kin and your friends and your fellow men, there may not be any trumpets or headlines—but there will be the joy of accomplishment and of little deeds well done.

For you, too, there will be resurrection—the resurrection from sorrow to contentment, the resurrection from insignificance to the respect and gratitude of those for whom you have labored.

For, if I may be permitted to paraphrase what the least of you have done for the least of them, you have done for King.

From Me To You

By MESECALL

Here are some questions that have been asked by various veterans... and the answers have been supplied by official spokesmen from the Veterans Administration... if you have anything on your mind send it in, in writing, and let the officials do the answering.

Q. I have an ailment that I'm pretty sure is service-connected. I didn't enter a claim for it, but since my discharge it seems to have become worse, and I'd like to have it treated. Will VA give me the necessary treatment?

A. Yes. This is what you should do: Go to your nearest VA office and file a claim. While your claim is being adjudicated, to ascertain its service connection and amount of disability, you will receive treatment for your ailment, at VA expense. If it is found that your ailment is service connected or service aggravated, treatment will continue, until, if it is possible, a cure is effected.

Q. I'm being treated by VA designated physician for a service connected disability. Will VA supply the necessary pharmaceutical prescriptions?

A. Yes. That is part of VA out-patient treatment service.

Q. I'm drawing a pension for my malaria, that I got in the South Pacific. I'm planning on vacationing in a small town in New England this summer, where there may not be VA facilities for treatment. If I have an attack, what should I do?

A. If you have an attack, go to any doctor in the town at which you're vacationing. Have him treat you, and request him to notify VA of this treatment within 72 hours after you have reported to him. VA will then reimburse him. It would be a good idea for you to take with you your honorable discharge and a copy of your award of disability.

Q. I have a disability claim on file with the Veterans Administration. If they grant me a pension on what date will it begin?

A. If you file a claim for disability within one year after you are separated from the service and you are awarded benefits, your pension will commence the first day after you were discharged. If you entered a claim more than one year after your separation, your disability benefits will begin on the date of your application.

Showdown At Hand

On Coal Disaster

WASHINGTON, May 14.—If it has not been clear before, certainly John L. Lewis and his coal strike must have made it clear by now that unless some way is found to restore some degree of courage and character to the Government of the United States, this isn't going to be any kind of country at all for any of us.

THE TRUCE called by Mr. Lewis and the prospective settlement of the current calamitous controversy does not alter the fact that this particular strike has brought us to the verge of complete economic paralysis; that the series of strikes with which we have been afflicted in recent months, plus the more than 1,000, notice of which have been given as coming, have black-jacked and blackmailed us into a humiliating position, exhibit us as a great nation unable to maintain a decent self-respect or protect the lives of the people from the arrogance and greed of as tough a set of professional labor bullies as has even been known.

THIS is not exaggeration. It is a bald statement of fact. In alliance with the late Mr. Roosevelt and with a Supreme Court packed for them by him, the big union bosses have acquired unprecedented legal authority and political power. As a result, they now threaten to dominate the Democratic party and to elect its Republican. We ought to face the facts. As a result of thirteen years of shameful political coddling and presidential subservience, these labor professionalists have built themselves up to the point where they actually aspire to run the country which undoubtedly they are on their way to dominate unless we quickly recover our manhood and slap them down.

THE glidy whirl of international affairs, coupled with a multitude of postwar domestic problems, have combined to bewilder the average American and prevent him from seeing this labor domination clearly. It is further obscured by the unprecedentedly elaborate and expensive CIO publicity machine. Its size, cost and character are a story by themselves. It is enough now to say that no other propaganda agency anywhere approaches it in volume and extent. However, it has not prevented those capable of discernment from appreciating the full design of this concededly Communist-flavored organization. They know that the men who run it have plans far more ambitious than merely to raise the wages and living level of industrial workers.

TODAY, political power is their great goal to attain which millions of dollars are being expended and 48 states drenched with propaganda. The extraordinary widening of CIO activities in recent years is significant. Observers have seen this agency this year launch a union of Government employees with a strike provision in its charter. They have seen it enter the realm of sport in an effort to organize basketball basketball and they have seen it edging into our great humanitarian and charitable agencies, such as the Red Cross. With the latter, it revealed its real purpose when, after learning that the Red Cross compelled by widespread protest, would not renew a contract that never should have been made, it published a critical letter declining to renew on the ground that it was not accorded sufficient "participation" in policy. The net of all this is that the time has arrived for the showdown. The day is now at hand when the Senate will have to prove whether it is composed of men or mice.

THE opportunity exists now to restore the health of the emasculated Case bill as to protect the public interests. There is the one change in years in which we have published a sacred right to strike and make it impossible in the future for any set of labor bosses to strangle the national economy—and bludgeon any community into submission. There are resting in Senate committees now several bills which should be offered as amendments, and which not only are badly needed for the safety of the people as a whole but which are essential to the dignity of the Federal Government. If, with the temporary passing of the acute crisis, public sentiment again subsides and the weakens, it will be a shocking thing. If a last-minute "truce" once more averts action, it will be a victory for the labor racketeers, stamping us as supine, inert, impotent in the face of danger to protect ourselves.

EVERY citizen resentful of the situation should closely watch the attitude of his representatives in the Senate. He should take every means of letting them know how he feels. And later, at the polls, he should vote for or against these senators according to their votes for or against real regulatory legislation. In that way—and in that way only—can this threat of labor dictatorship be nullified and the fear that so long has weighed upon our legislators be lifted.

IN that way—and that way only—can we pull out of this shocking mess into which the late Mr. Roosevelt got us and create a sound national labor policy. If Mr. Truman is wise, he will cease bleating about his devotion to the so-called "Roosevelt policies" and take a stand in this matter on the side of the great mass of Americans who belong to no union or other special group. That would not only be the patriotic thing to do but it would be the smartest possible politics.

Charge Uncle Sam Is In The Black Market
Wheat Bonus Has Aroused Criticism Of Many
Congress Still Has Heavy Schedule Ahead

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The government is being severely criticized by some agricultural groups, as well as members of Congress, for offering its 30-cent-a-bushel bonus for wheat and 50,000,000 bushels of corn for shipment to famine areas abroad.

The reason for the criticism is this:

While feed dealers and dairy farmers are unable to pay over-cupping prices for short grain supplies, the government is able—because of the bonus—to outbid the farmer and feed dealer. If the farmer pays the 30-cent bonus, he is engaging in black market activity.

The senator from the tall corn state of Iowa—George Wilson, a Republican—puts the question: "If that (the government's bonus) isn't a black market operation, then what is?"

Congress Wants To Quit

Congress wants to adjourn by the end of June or early July. There are two reasons for this:

1.—The congressmen are tired and look forward to their first lengthy vacation since before the war.

2.—They want to campaign so they can remain in Congress.

If plans for adjournment are successful, this Congress—the 79th—will not return to Washington at all. The 80th Congress, to be elected this November, will convene in January, 1947.

There is a heavy load of work to be done, however, and Congress may be forced to stay here far into the summer.

Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, former British ambassador to Moscow and recently mediator in the Indonesian dispute, is coming to the United States as envoy to succeed Lord Halifax, but Americans won't know him as Sir Archibald.

Union Stayed In South

Important labor leaders in Washington are willing to admit, privately, that they do not expect either the AFL or the CIO to make much headway in their much-publicized drives to organize workers in the south. Best bet for creating a real union, they say, is among the oil workers of Texas.

The World and the Mud Puddles

KEEP IT, IT'S OURS

The optimism of our State Department in announcing its plan for world control of the atom bomb and nuclear energy in general may recall to many people the hopefulness of the Harding administration in 1921 when it ended the "red" era. At that time, as now, the world was a place of war and willing to take drastic measures to promote abiding peace. Then, as now, the United States had come out of war victorious and was the strongest power in the world. Then, as now, the nation had footed the main burden of the cost of a world war. Our own people, for selfish as well as sentimental reasons, wanted to try some method of forestalling another war. They had seen the League of Nations rejected by our Senate and were told that general disarmament was a more practical plan.

Everybody knows now what happened to disarmament. We pushed it at once to get rid of a large share of our dangerous weapons, but our arms in the minimum and sank so many warships that the late Will Rogers said our navy consisted of a couple of rowboats. Somehow Great Britain didn't follow our example. Instead she evaded the pact by various devices which not only maintained but expanded her naval strength. Japan almost openly ignored the agreement and went on building up the great fleet which she hoped would whip us in the war to come at her choosing. An international committee met occasionally and passed fine resolutions. But we were the only nation in the world to do any actual disarmament.

As a safeguard and supplement to the disarmament arrangements, our secretary of state and the French foreign minister evoked the Kellogg-Briand pact, which pledged the nations to refrain from any aggressive activities, with particular stress on the cooperation of the United States and Great Britain in Asia and the Pacific. Within a few years the pact was a tattered scrap of paper, particularly in the case of Japan, which spread out into Korea and Manchuria and set up the puppet state of Manchukuo.

It may be that the world is a little farther advanced today than in the 1920's. It may be that the United Nations will prove a much more potent force than the League of Nations or the Kellogg-Briand Pact. It may be that the powers of the world will give more scrupulous adherence to their pledges than in the hopeful days of Harding. On the surface, however, there are no indications of serious change. Self-interest still manifests itself in many places. There is turmoil in many quarters of the globe.

Wouldn't it be a part of common sense and prudence to think back and review our experiences with disarmament before we go too far in sharing our vital secrets with nations which may be potential enemies? It has been demonstrated over and over that one of our common errors is to judge other peoples by our own high standards. Let us not repeat that error too often, as we value our own security.

I enclosed my special bulletin on "Sleep Problems," and asked her to read it carefully, especially the section which deals with her very problem. Then I pointed out to her that she spans her youngster after he is out of bed and has had a lot of fun at it besides having her chasing him to get him back. For him it is a game.

Budget your time so you will always be on hand at any moment. His door slam so you can see him and he can't see you. Instantly as he gets on his hands, knees or feet, spank him soundly. Tuck him in again tenderly and take position as before.

Continue this till he falls asleep on the clock bell rings at the end of 1½ hours. Proceed in like fashion the next day and the next till you are sure he will stay in bed at naptime. It may take a week or more.

The Parent Problem

SPANKING EFFECTIVE IN CONTROL OF TOT

Effective spanking, especially of the child under three or four is immediate and without exception. More children get spanked without its doing them any good than the number who are effectively trained thereby. This is no argument against spanking but for intelligent spanking.

Ever so many children are slapped or clouted on the slightest pretext or when the parent is exasperated. Often the tot is spanked once for something then allowed to repeat the same thing twenty times without getting spanked, even in the parent's presence. Yet, many parents wonder why the spanking did no good.

No Need To Resume Wartime Rationing Says Herbert Hoover

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(INS)—Herbert Hoover made it clear Monday that he does not believe the United States needs to resume wartime rationing to produce food to feed the hungry of Europe and Asia.

The former chief executive just returned from a global inspection tour of famine areas as a special representative of President Truman. He made a first hand report on the world food situation to the President Monday afternoon.

Hoover told a news conference after making his official report to President Truman that the American people have done a "splendid job" in voluntary conservation.

No Mass Starvation

Hoover, honorary chairman of the President's famine emergency committee, also asserted that he found no mass starvation in his three-month globe-circling investigation in the famine areas of both Europe and Asia.

Hoover said that he will make an address in Chicago Friday night in which he will suggest other means of further food conservation through voluntary means.

The food expert was asked: "Did you see anyone dying of starvation during your world trip?" Hoover replied with a flat "no." Then he said that there is no mass starvation in the world today—that the problem is one of preventing starvation.

"These efforts that we are making are preventive."

"Up to date there has been no mass starvation in the world but I doubt that there is more than a 30-day food supply in any one of the famine countries."

Problem Is Revealed

"The problem is to maintain the stream of supplies."

"If we can maintain it there will be no mass starvation."

"If the food supplies should stop there would be starvation."

Hoover declined to reply directly to a question of whether he considered it necessary for this country to return to rationing of cereals or other food on the ground that such a question dealt with a controversial subject.

He said:

"I saw here and there a few things abroad that I did not like concerning whether one country or another was providing as much food relief as they might have but I have kept my mouth shut about it and have not entered into any controversial question."

"My job is to find an international solution to the food problem. I will not enter either into any domestic controversy."

Hoover earlier in the conference said in his opinion the American public has done an excellent job in voluntary food conservation with the exception of some restaurants.

The former president said that he will have additional suggestions to make to the country in his address in Chicago Friday night on purely voluntary methods of conservation.

"Do you think the voluntary means of rationing are sufficient?" he was asked.

Hoover replied:

"We will get more under the voluntary methods of conservation than through any other method."

"The machinery behind the voluntary rationing method has been very effective."

George P. told us the story of the two parrots that lived in the same neighborhood. One of them swore all day long, while the other spent considerable time playing. The owner of the parrot, who was quite disturbed at the sound of the swearing and suggested that maybe the parrot could reform the other. So the parrot was brought into the same room with the devout parrot, and the humans left the room.

"How about a little kiss, old girl?" squawked the swearing parrot, letting off a couple of oaths to emphasize the remark.

"Sure, you darn fool," said the other bird. "What do you suppose I've been praying for all this time?"

Plan To Sell Buildings At Annex Site

During council meeting which was held in city hall Monday another step was taken by council toward increasing housing facilities here.

The step was in the form of an ordinance which calls for the sale of nine Deshon annex buildings and leasing of ground where Deshon hospital annex was located in Cunningham park.

The structures are to be converted into apartments. Veterans will be given preference.

If, at the end of five years, the emergency is ended, the successful bidder may remove the buildings.

Bids on the buildings and the lease will be opened in city council meeting May 23.

The ordinance which was introduced in committee, reported out favorably and is now being printed.

Cancer Quota Half Attained

Latest Report Shows That $6,383.24 Has Been Raised In County So Far

Latest report from the headquarters of the Lawrence County Cancer drive shows that slightly over the halfway mark in the march toward the set goal has been attained. Figures show $6,383.24 has been donated to the effort, with the quota in the county set at $12,000.

Hon. John G. Lamoree, chairman of the campaign, has stated that it is hoped to finish the drive this week. Contributions from Ellwood City are yet to come in, as well as checks from some of the industries in the city.

It is not too late to give. Checks are still being accepted at the drive headquarters in the Lawrence Savings and Trust building, and other collections are being made in theaters. If we cannot attain our goal, let's try to climb as near the top as possible.

Chinese Reds Throw Circle Around Peiping

PEIPING, May 14.—(INS)—Chinese communists continued to develop troops in a wide circle around Peiping today and three regiments reportedly straddled the Peiping-Hankow railway.

Tientsin, another of North China's leading cities, was also threatened with encirclement in movements by an estimated total force of 100,000 Chinese communists.

Forty miles southwest of Peiping a force of 5,000 communists was reportedly repulsed by nationalist defenders in an attack on Kiangcheng. Nationalist troops were also reported successfully defending Changping, 30 miles northwest of Peiping, against communist attacks.

Higher Ceilings Set For Grains

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(INS)—Cries of dismay from corn belt congressmen greeted the OPA price increases of grains atop government bonus payments for wheat and corn shipments abroad.

Shortages of beef, pork, poultry, eggs and dairy products and closing of thousands of bakeries were among the most serious predictions voiced by legislators when OPA increases of 25 cents a bushel for corn, 15 cents a bushel for wheat and five

Flour Mills In Nation Are Facing Shutdown Shortly

Involuntary Rationing Of Wheat Products In June Likely To Be Present

MINNEAPOLIS, May 14.—(INS)—Closing of the nation's flour mills by the end of May will put American consumers of wheat products in a position of involuntary rationing in June.

This was the consensus today of officials of leading milling companies which announced they would be forced to shut down this month because of a lack of wheat.

Briefly, the situation was this: The nation is behind in its food commitments to war-torn and famine-stricken countries.

To make up for lost time, the commodities credit corporation is paying a 30-cent bonus to farmers and buying up their grain for overseas shipment.

Farmers are selling to the CCC and not to the millers, who are bound by a ceiling price of 30 cents a bushel below the CCC bonus level.

The CCC bonus ends May 25 and will be followed by a 15-cent boost in the normal price.

Abbott Washburn, vice president of General Mills, Inc., said: "The long-term outlook depends upon the rapidity of the new crop movement. If it progresses rapidly, the nation will struggle through; if it's slow, or if we run into a drought, it's going to be tough."

All 21 of the mills operated by Washburn's firm are slated for closing by the end of the month, throwing 4,000 employees out of work. Some of the mills are due to close within the week.

Philip W. Pillsbury, president of Pillsbury Mills, announced that the huge Pillsbury "A" mill would be closed for the first time in 66 years. The company's mill at Enid, Okla., has already been forced to suspend.

Wooden bumpers on some of the new motor cars offer a new hazard to the lowly pedestrian who now must be on the lookout for splinters.

Music Club To Give Oratorio

Haydn's "The Creation" Will Be Sung Sunday Evening In First Methodist Church

CHORUS OF 80 VOICES TO SING

The Music club chorus will present "The Creation," an oratorio, by Joseph Haydn, on Sunday, May 19, at 8:00 p. m. in the First Methodist church of New Castle. "The Creation" differs from the oratorio "The Messiah" by Handel, and "Elijah" by Mendelssohn, given by the Music club chorus in previous years with such tremendous success, in that it is the first oratorio written to the sympathetic and descriptive accompaniment of the modern orchestra. Joseph Haydn is known as the father of instrumental music. Words of the oratorio have been taken from Milton's "Paradise Lost".

Opens with Overture
The first part opens with an overture representing the chaos from which one instrument after another extricates itself, and finally order appears. The happy union of singers and accompaniment renders possible the effective and brilliant descriptive writings Haydn included in this work.

There is the rage of Satan and his hosts as they are precipitate into Hell, the making of the firmament, the tumult of the storm. First part closes with a description of the planets, the majestic splendor of the moon, with its gentle radiance, and the appearance of the starry heavens.

Second Part
Second part pictures the characteristics of the various forms of life that appear on the earth. The majestic flight of the eagle, and then passes blithely on to the safety of the lark, the tenderness of the cooling doves, and the plaintiveness of the nightingale, in which the singing of the birds is as closely imitated as the resources of music will allow. The creation of Adam and Eve with a picture of happiness is followed by the triumphant announcement of God that His work is complete and meets with His approval.

Dawn of Creation
The third part portrays the dawn of the last day of the creation and is accompanied with a series of beautiful arias and chorus of angels extolling the glory and goodness of God.

Mrs. William J. Caldwell, who needs no introduction to the music lovers of New Castle, directs this most beautiful oratorio, with her usual fine sense of timing and interpretation, and gives to the chorus of 80 voices the beauty of her own spirit through her inspired leadership.

The accompaniment to which the presentation of the oratorio owes its beauty and effectiveness is in the capable and brilliant hands of Edwin Lewis, organist of the First Methodist church, and Mrs. Richard K. Allen, organist of the First Christian church, at the organ and piano respectively.

Soloists
Solo parts will be sung by Samuel R. McCleary, Jr., bass, as Raphael; Bernice Turner Housh, of Ellwood City, soprano, as Gabriel; Earl Hammond, tenor, as Uriel; Betty Smith White, soprano, as Eve; John Kyle, bass, as Adam; and Marjorie Tyler Friend, contralto.

The Rev. G. S. Bennett, D. D., will give the invocations, and the Rev. J. J. McIlvaine, D. D., will make the announcements. Rev. Walter W. Gilliland to pronounce the benediction.

Ministerial Association of New Castle sponsors the presentation of "The Creation". Mrs. George E. Strehler, president of Music club, and Mrs. J. J. McIlvaine, hostess for the evening cordially invite the people of New Castle and vicinity to attend.

Horse and sheep numbers on Pennsylvania farms are at the lowest point in history, horses numbering 207,000 and sheep 284,000 on January 1, 1940.

Poll Reveals Police Chiefs Rise From Ranks

STATE COLLEGE, May 14.—A poll of 113 Pennsylvania communities today showed that most police chiefs rise from the ranks.

While less than half of the 246 communities polled returned their questionnaires, Institute of Local Government officials at the Pennsylvania State college expressed confidence that the results were representative of the entire state.

The returns, as published in the current issue of Chiefs of Police Bulletin, show that the chiefs in 113 communities—none of them under 5,000 population—boost an average of 19.9 years of police experience. The average in three cities with populations in excess of 100,000 was 29.4 years.

In compiling the results, the Penn State polltakers found that police chiefs, in the main, are men with extensive experience in the ranks, or men with long experience in the Pennsylvania State Police.

The survey showed that all but two of the chiefs in 22 municipalities over 25,000 came from the ranks, and in those two former state policemen were named; 36 of 44 in communities between 10,000 and 25,000 rose from the ranks; and 36 of 47 in places between 5,000 and 10,000 also were promoter from the ranks.

British Minister Denies He's Asking Rationing In U. S.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(INS)—Herbert Morrison, British cabinet minister, on Monday denied reports that he is demanding a return of rationing in the United States to help the world food situation.

Morrison, as he entered the State Department to confer with acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson, told reporters:

"It is not in my program to ask that America resume rationing, and I have no intention of doing so."

The British official is in Washington on a special food mission. He declined to disclose what measures he is recommending to augment food allocations to famine areas.

NOT ON YOUR TINTYPE!

Grandma looks calm and collected as she poses for posterity, but she wasn't—not on your tintype! Getting her family ready for this picture was a long, weary business.

The day this photo was snapped, Grandma was up at dawn, wrestling with the old wood stove, coaxing the kettle to boil, cooking breakfast. And the day before, she ironed the mountain of starched clothes that had needed such hard scrubbing. The day before that—

But that was Grandma's life. She didn't know any other kind. Her way of housekeeping took lots of time, lots of elbow grease. In Grandma's gayest dreams she never imagined the time would come when a woman would have dozens of electric servants daily for the cost of a bar of soap.

Electric service—ready and willing around the clock and calendar—is a modern miracle Grandma missed by being born too soon. But electrical dependability (and cheapness, too) didn't happen by accident. Not on your tintype! They're the result of plenty of hard work and practical experience on the part of your neighbors who operate this company.

SEES INDEPENDENCE IN RUBBER FOR U. S.
DETROIT, May 14.—(INS)—R. S. Wilson, vice president of the Good-year Tire and Rubber Co., said today that within ten years the United States could become totally independent as far as its rubber supply is concerned.

He urged the development of a planted area in Central America capable of producing 100,000 tons of natural rubber a year. This, he said, together with synthetic rubber would free the United States from reliance on all other sources.

FOOD LOCKER INCREASE.
STATE COLLEGE, May 14.—Frozen food lockers in Pennsylvania in 1945 numbered 153 as compared with 7 in 1937, according to John E. Nicholas, professor of agricultural engineering at the Pennsylvania State College. He said 10 to 15 per cent more are under construction.

Truman Using New Gymnasium To Remain Fit

President Relaxes From Desk Grind To Work Out In New Private Gymnasium

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(INS)—President Truman has a brand new private gymnasium, complete with mechanical exercise horse, to help combat the enervating effects of eight hours daily at the nation's No. 1 desk job and to keep him in top physical form.

Four or five afternoons a week, after the day's work is over, the President leaves his office and goes to the gymnasium just a few steps away in the White House west wing and takes a brisk quarter to half-hour workout under the watchful eye of his personal physician, Col. Wallace Graham.

The small private gymnasium is the latest addition to the appointments around the White House to keep the President in active physical condition. It has just been completed and is located near the swimming pool which the late President Roosevelt had installed during the early part of his administration.

Horseshoe Stakes

In addition, the President not long ago had horseshoe stakes put up on the south lawn of the White House near his executive office where he occasionally pitches a few rounds of barnyard golf with Press Secretary Charles G. Ross or his military aide, Brig. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan.

Mr. Truman starts the day off after arising at 6 a. m., by motoring out in the suburbs and taking a brisk half hour walk before returning to the White House for breakfast.

The President ends his work day, something after five in the afternoon, by going to the gym and taking a workout which he sometimes follows by a short dip in the pool.

The gymnasium is a distinct new innovation. Prior to its construction and equipping, the President during the winter has had to depend on his early morning walks and a late afternoon swim for exercise.

Colonel Graham said that the President is unusually vigorous physically for a man of 62 and requires systematic exercise to keep him in top form.

Discards Horse

Mr. Truman doesn't like the mechanical horse and after trying it once had it set over in the corner out of the way.

What the President does use in the gym instead are a few of the ordinary pieces of exercise equipment usually found in gymnasiums. He has a rowing machine, an exercise board, a medicine ball, and parallel bars.

The President goes through a regular routine, after which he is given a vigorous rubdown by a sergeant masseur from Walter Reed hospital.

Mr. Truman's present weight is 176 pounds. He has gained a little weight during his year in the White House, but only a few pounds.

"We are not worried about the 176 pounds, though," Colonel Graham said. "The President's waistline is still smaller than his chest measurement."

President Truman has not had a single day's illness—not even a head cold since he came to the White House.

Harry E. Corban At A-Bomb Test Scene

Another local young man is enroute at the present to the scene of the atom bomb experiments which will be conducted on Bikini Atoll. He is Harry E. Corban, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Corban, of Castlewood.

At present, Corban is aboard the Ajax, a repair ship, which will be standing by at the time the bomb tests will be made.

Harry enlisted in the Navy, October 25, 1944 at the age of 17, receiving his basic training at Sampson. While at Sampson he volunteered for overseas service and joined up with the 31st C. B. Battalion. He was in Okinawa from April to September, in 1945 re-enlisting for four years, during his duty on Guam, where he was later transferred. After his re-enlistment, he received a 60-day furlough.

How to Keep Millions in Europe and Asia From Starving

*Buy Less Bread... Eat Less Bread
...Waste No Bread At All*

FACED with the news that millions in Europe and Asia are in danger of starving, the heart of America responded by shipping wheat to these unfortunate peoples.

Today there is 25% less wheat for consumption here at home. This means less cereals and less bread.

Yet there is need for even more wheat to be shipped to Europe and Asia to ease the famine there. And it will be another 60 days or more before new wheat starts flowing from the farms of America to its mills.

This means just one thing: save bread. Every slice you do not eat means a slice for some starving person abroad. A person who has no meat, no milk, no oranges, no sugar. Nothing to keep the last flicker of life burning except the wheat that is sent to him or to her.

That is the situation. Those are the facts. The heart of America has spoken—we will let no one starve if we can help it.

The bakers of Wonder Bread say one thing: save bread. Buy less bread... eat less bread... waste no bread at all. Because what you do not buy and what you do not eat can then be shipped to the starving millions of Europe and India and China.

Put your home on bread rationing—don't deny your children, but do deny yourself—you'll feel better in your heart for doing it.

STATE TAXATION
FOR GOVERNMENT
PLACED MACHINES

WASHINGTON, May 14—(INS)—The Supreme Court Monday ruled that machinery installed in a war plant by the federal government is subject to state taxation.

The court affirmed a Supreme Court of Pennsylvania ruling upholding state taxation of equipment installed in a Curtiss-Wright plant in Borough township, Beaver county, Pa., by the Defense Plant corporation, a federal agency.

In a unanimous opinion written by Justice Black, the court said that Congress, in subjecting Defense Plant corporation's properties to local taxes had indicated an intention to permit established local tax assessment and collection procedures to prevail.

Westminster Prexy Says Girls Should

Diplomas, Though

NEW WILMINGTON, May 14—“I Love You, Mother” said little John, “And forgetting his work, his cap went on,” seems to be the attitude of most college men, Dr. Robert F. Galbreath, president of Westminster College believes.

Dr. Galbreath advised the men students to show more courtesy to the women students as well as their mothers in his chapel address concerning Mother's Day. He asked the men to volunteer as porters before and after vacations and not allow the coeds to stagger under heavy laundry cases and suitcases.

Women students should show a mutual consideration, according to Dr. Galbreath. He thought it would be a good idea to require women to prepare a decent meal before they received their diplomas.

The men applauded this statement.

Boy's Hanging
In Grade School
Thought Suicide

PRINCETON, N. J., May 14—(INS)—Police sought today to throw further light upon the death of 11-year-old Frank Miller, whose body was found hanging in the cloak room of an elementary school at nearby Penns Neck.

State police said the boy apparently took his own life with a skipping rope tied to a coat hook. His teacher, Mrs. Anna Lannahan, said the boy had been sent into the room 20 minutes earlier “until he learned to act like a little gentleman.”

Police agreed that there was no evidence of foul play by any other person. They said it was possible young Miller had intended only to simulate hanging in order to attract the attention of his classmates.

Friends of the boy said he was deeply affected by the death of his mother two months ago. He had been living with a foster father, Garfield Plerson of Penns Neck.

Cooked A Fine Dinner;
Then Threw It To Dog

One lady recently stated that she used to throw her own dinner to the dog most of the time. It made her sick just to look at anything to eat. She was swollen with gas, full of bloated, had headaches, felt worn out and was badly constipated. Finally she got ERB-HELP and says she now eats everything in sight and digests it perfectly. Bowels are regular and normal. She is enjoying life once more and feels like “some other woman” since taking this New Compound.

CHICKENS LIKE LADINO CLOVER AND BLUEGRASS

An established Ladino clover sod alone, or with bluegrass, provides ideal pasture for poultry.

Good soil drainage to help keep the ground dry, and a thick sod cover to keep the chickens out of the mud are emphasized. Needed also are a variety of grasses and legumes to ensure ample green feed of high nutritional value during the entire ranging season.

Grasses should be clipped frequently to let the sunshine keep the ground dry and aid in destroying possible disease organisms. Natural shade, if available, is desirable. But it should not be so dense that the sunshine cannot reach the soil.

Young orchards, providing limited shade, make satisfactory poultry ranges. Wooded areas, if well drained and sufficiently open to the sunlight, also may be used.

SHOULD VETERANS HAVE A VOICE
IN THE NATION THEY DEFENDED

In the advertising published for the candidacy of William C. Seltzer for the Republican nomination for Congress, little reference has been made to his service record in World War II. Not because of any lack of record but because we believe service alone is not sufficient.

Because of some questionable methods used by persons opposed to him we feel that in all honesty his record should be known. Not alone that, but there is a widespread feeling that the men who fought for the United States, who were wounded in the cause of freedom should have a voice in the post war plans of this nation.

The debt we have contracted for the war will take generations to liquidate. Congress should have men and women who know war from their practical experience, who want to keep this nation free, and who have the vision and courage to do something about it.

The Commander Amphibious Forces, United States Pacific fleet, commends WILLIAM CHARLES SELTZER for service as set forth in the following

CITATION:

"For excellent service in the line of his profession as Assistant to the Control Officer on the Staff of the Commander of an Amphibious Group, from March to November 1945, during the amphibious assault and capture of Cebu, Mindanao, Balikpapan, and the occupation of Japan. Demonstrating exceptional professional ability, untiring diligence, and loyal devotion to duty, he consistently performed all assigned tasks with marked efficiency and skill. His constant dependability, alert resourcefulness, and steadfast courage under dangerous conditions imposed by combat with the enemy enabled him to contribute materially to the success of these amphibious operations. His conduct gives evidence of his great value to the naval service."

J. L. HALL, JR.,
Vice Admiral, U. S. Navy.

William C. Seltzer's record speaks for itself. Vote for him on May 21st. First name on the ballot.

George W. Cook, Jr., Chairman,
Seltzer for Congress Committee.

First GI Gripe Told Eisenhower On Japanese Tour

Ike Defends Corporal Against Colonel In 'Bum Mess' Complaint

TOKYO, May 14.—(INS)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower heard his first GI gripe on his visit to Japan Monday.

Oddly enough a soldier from the south made a "bee" to the chief of staff because he had been served pork chops.

"Ike" asked Cpl. R. J. Dutton of Griffin, Ga., whether he was getting enough food.

Corporal Dutton replied: "We've got a bum mess, Sir."

"What's that?" asked "Ike", surprised.

Rigid with determination, Dutton reiterated: "A bum mess, Sir."

At that moment a colonel tried to introduce a battalion commander but "Ike" broke in:

"Colonel, this man says he has a bum mess. I don't want him punished and I want to tell you that a good mess is one of the most important factors in army morale."

The colonel, red-faced, asked:

"Corporal, what did you have for dinner tonight?"

"Pork chops, Sir."

Colonel: "Didn't you have steak tonight?"

Corporal: "No, Sir! Pork chops."

Colonel, shouting to a nearby platoon lieutenant:

"Didn't everyone have steak tonight?"

Lieutenant, hesitatingly: "Well, ah—yes, Sir."

Corporal: "I had pork chops."

Eisenhower: "By gum, if the man says he had pork chops he ought to know what he's talking about."

Corporal: "Sir, we all agreed that if any of us were asked he'd reply for the whole group and tell you about the food situation."

Eisenhower: "Colonel, I want you to write me a letter in about a week and tell me if the mess is improved."

AROUND CITY HALL

Members of City Council in session in City Hall Monday adopted a petition by the city to the Commissioners of Lawrence county, asking that county, pursuant to an act of legislature, which makes it possible, grant the city aid in constructing the city's share of the new Route 422 in Sampson street. The city has appropriated $15,000 for the work but needs about $14,000 and it has been indicated that the county will consent to pay that much from gasoline tax refund monies.

When council met Monday, Councilman D. O. Davies introduced an ordinance authorizing the city to buy a combination triple fire-fighting unit to be installed on a chassis from the W. S. Darling company, Chicago. The fire equipment in the Seventh ward needs replacement, according to reports in City Hall. The bill was reported favorably from committee and will be adopted next week.

Council has authorized a contract for the printing of bonds, an ordinance having recently authorized a half million dollar issue for the payment of new improvements, including a city building here and the issue of which was bought by the First National Bank of Lawrence county. The cost of the printing will be $197.50.

Pulaski Youth Marine Applicant

Theodore Konachynski, 18, of R. D. 1, Pulaski, applied for a two-year Marine enlistment Saturday at the recruiting station in the Post Office building.

The Marine Corps concluded their first week in the city today and will remain here for two more weeks in an effort to recruit youths for the Marine service.

Dodgers And Cardinals Begin Important Series

Cardinals Seek To Oust Bums In Current Series

Brooklyn Hot Club On Home Grounds, Have Won Nine Straight

DETROIT TIGERS STARTING DRIVE

NEW YORK, May 14.—(INS)—Inter-sectional competition gets underway again in the major leagues today with the strong western clubs of the National league invading the East, and the East's American league clubs starting a western tour.

By far the most important tilt of the day is at Ebbets field where the Brooklyn Dodgers, now leading St. Louis by two full games, begin a two-game set with the Cardinals.

Dodgers Hot
The Dodgers are a hot club on their own diamond. They won their ninth straight home engagement yesterday in trouncing the Phillies, 6 to 3, and pulled a triple steal in the bargain.

Today the Brooks probably will throw Hal Gregg at St. Louis. The Cards' probable will counter with Max Lanier, who has won four games and lost none.

Boston's Braves took over third place, only one game behind the Cards, by noosing out the New York Giants in the ninth, 7 to 6. A silly error by Relief Pitcher Mike Budnick let in the tying and winning runs, and nullified Johnny Mize's seventh homer of the season.

Tigers Clicking
In the American league, the Detroit Tigers, recovering last from the handicap of a staggering hospital list, served notice that they will be mighty tough on their home stand, starting today against Washington. The battering Bengals racked up their eighth straight win, beating the Chicago White Sox 6 to 5 thanks to a six-run second inning. Hal Newhouse was the winning pitcher.

Cleveland and St. Louis split a twin bill. Red Embree of the Indians pitched and batted his way to a 9 to 2 triumph over the Browns in the opener, but St. Louis took the nightcap, 3 to 0, behind gilded pitching by Al Milnar, former Cleveland twirler.

Other teams were idle.

Eighth Fleet In Caribbean On Maneuvers

Admiral Mitscher's Fleet
Employing Latest Naval Weapons In Extensive Work

ABOARD CARRIER ROOSEVELT OFF HAITI, May 14.—(INS)—The Eighth Fleet maneuvers in the Caribbean are proceeding as if there were no such thing as an atom bomb.

The Navy is not putting all its eggs in one basket.

It wants to keep the present carriers and battleships at peak efficiency until project Crossroads proves whether they are obsolete.

As of the present moment, there is nothing dated about Admiral Marc A. Mitscher's fast, hard-nitting 29-ship fleet.

The battleship Missouri which will join the cruise tomorrow has been relegated to a secondary position in the air-accented war game. Mitscher's flagship is the super flat-top Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The cruising speed of the striking force is 32 knots, the world's fastest. But overshadowing its speed and firepower is its mobility. The Eighth Fleet can sustain itself at sea for weeks or months without having to get help or ammunition from a shore establishment.

Its supply and repair ships, which form a sort of self-propelled Pearl Harbor, carry radar, sonar and loan equipment which dwarf the imagination of Buck Rogers.

Radio-directed, radar-observed, pilotless little planes called drones are catapulted from the cruisers to serve as targets. Fog and darkness are powerless to obscure the images of vessels, aircraft targets and even of storm clouds on the radarscope.

Each of the two biggest carriers contains enough fuel in its tanks to equal the weight of a light cruiser. A short distance away chug mammoth tankers with more fuel for months-long operations.

When the five-inch guns opened up on the Roosevelt today they inadvertently celebrated an anniversary. It was just a year ago that the Japs attacked the Enterprise off Okinawa while Admiral Mitscher was aboard as commander of Task Force 58.

Today one of Mitscher's chief concerns is the peace-time safety of the fleet. He is taking no chances just to prove a point. Water-bombs and sand-bombs will be dropped whenever men might be endangered by live ammunition.

Seventy eighth graders from Shenango high school spent Saturday morning and afternoon in Pittsburgh, seeing the town from the top of the Gulf building, visiting places of interest and attending a radio broadcast.

Accompanying the class on the trip, which was made by bus, were John Day, the bus mechanic, and the following teachers: Miss Frances Ackerman, Miss Frances Boomer, Miss Mary Elizabeth Jenkins, Miss Leola Rowe, Elmer Brown and J. B. Houk.

SUGAR FOR BEES
Human beings are not the only ones feeling the effects of shortages. Bees are hungry just now, according to Henry Badger of Shenango township, and the only thing they can be fed is sugar. The reason is that the heavy frosts killed off the fruit blossoms, the berry blossoms aren't out yet and the reserves of honey kept by the bees for food is used up. The OPA is prepared to grant sugar certificates to bee keepers.

ELECTIONS EASTERN STANDARD
The county commissions, acting as a board of elections, today said the elections on May 21, primary day, would be held on eastern standard time. This means the polls will open at 7 EST or 8 DST and close at 8 EST or 9 DST.

CASE DISMISSED
Upon petition of County Solicitor William McElwee, Jr., Judge John G. Lamore has dismissed the case of Jacob Zareck against the county commissioners in which Mr. Zareck argued he was entitled to admission to the county home.
A mandamus was laid against the county and later the city asked to join as co-plaintiff. Mr. Zareck has been in the Jameson Memorial hospital under treatment.
In his petition Mr. McElwee set out that the man has been receiving aid in a state aided institution and that the case was one for the Department of Public Assistance.

SUGAR FOR BEES
Human beings are not the only ones feeling the effects of shortages. Bees are hungry just now, according to Henry Badger of Shenango township, and the only thing they can be fed is sugar. The reason is that the heavy frosts killed off the fruit blossoms, the berry blossoms aren't out yet and the reserves of honey kept by the bees for food is used up. The OPA is prepared to grant sugar certificates to bee keepers.

ELECTIONS EASTERN STANDARD
The county commissions, acting as a board of elections, today said the elections on May 21, primary day, would be held on eastern standard time. This means the polls will open at 7 EST or 8 DST and close at 8 EST or 9 DST.
